The Council, Police, Fire Services, Health Services and other partners work together to respond to emergencies in Bedfordshire, such as severe weather, flooding, and prolonged gas/electricity outages. To ensure that we can respond to any emergency, we also call on the support of local volunteers.

If you are interested in helping your community during times of crisis, we invite you to consider volunteering. As a volunteer, you may be asked to assist with a range of activities, including:

- supporting vulnerable people in your local community
- assisting with the distribution of essential supplies
- helping to coordinate the response to an emergency

Volunteering with the BLRF is a great way to give back to your community and help others during difficult times. You will also have the opportunity to learn new skills and gain valuable experience.

Full training is provided, there is low commitment and flexible hours.

For more information and to apply to become a member, visit the volunteering to help in emergencies page on our website.
